Bankhead Courts records. -- 1968-2016 and undated. -- 1.00 Cubic feet (2 boxes)

Scope and Content

The collection consists of project records, tenant association records, publications, photographs, and artifacts of the Bankhead Courts Project Records.

HISTORICAL NOTE:

Atlanta's first turnkey low-rent housing project, Bankhead Courts was located at 3400 Maynard Court in District 9. Completed January 20, 1970, it was the largest Turnkey Low Rent Housing Program site in the southeast and the second largest in the nation. The project was developed by Coble-Weaver, Joint Venture, and the contractor H.L.C. and Associates Construction Company of Greensboro, North Carolina. Its architects were Sheetz and Bradfield of Atlanta, Georgia. It originally held 500 housing units, and was situated on 45.4 acres to the north and south of Bankhead Highway, just East of the Chattahoochee River.

Bankhead Courts had an active community. In 1976, a community center was added to Bankhead Courts and erected on open land made available by the city's Board of Education next to the Alfred Blalock Elementary School. The community center contained a gymnasium and community office space for the communities' organizations. The ground breaking ceremony for the community building was held with Atlanta Mayor Maynard Jackson and Atlanta Housing's Executive Director Ernest C. Jackson in attendance. The Bankhead Courts community also had a Child Development Center (established 1972), a Youth Center, a Headstart Center, a Bankhead Courts Branch Library (dedicated 1989), and The Bankhead Courts Granny House community based children's shelter (opened 1993).

In 1974 Mayor Maynard Jackson spent a weekend at Bankhead with a Bankhead family. His visit followed an eruption of violence and rioting resulted from a confrontation between police and residents. He stated he wanted to use his visit to the complex as "a typical example of the problems of public housing and the problems faced by residents of public housing." His visit both criticized and praised by the public media resulted in increased attention on the need for a new approach to the chronic problems plaguing public housing. Jackson stated that his goal was to eventually make public housing "no different than any other housing in Atlanta." (AJC. Nov 10, 1974).

Bankhead Courts additionally suffered from disrepair. It was situated on low level lying land. Buildings sustained extensive structural damage and substantial deterioration partially due to flooding which made them cost prohibitive to repair. Many of the load bearing walls were severely damaged, creating the potential for structure failure and a vast majority of the upper floors were sagging and presented dangerous conditions. In 1996 Tenant Association President, Marsha Walker submitted her letter of recommendation on behalf of the residents of Bankhead Courts in support of Atlanta Housing's application to the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) for partial demolition. In 2011 the remaining Bankhead buildings were demolished also.

Scope and Content

This news article is accompanied by an editorial cartoon by cartoonist "Baldy" Baldowski (Clifford "Baldy" Baldowski). It depicts Mayor Maynard Jackson sitting at his desk and having had clipped out news articles with commentary on his stay at Bankhead Courts. He sits with a pair of scissors before him and articles with headlines in back of him announcing: "Help Assured," "Change Coming," "Visit to Spark New Action," "Mayor is Weekend Houseguest in Bankhead," and "Jackson Sees the Problem First Hand." A man informs the mayor, "In fact, you went over so well that they want you to move in until the project is complete."
